

Minitopo

lampada tavolo disegno

In 1970, designer
Joe Colombo
invented a new icon
for the world
of Italian design:
Minitopo.

STILNOVO

STILNOVO'S EVERGREEN PAST MEETS THE TECHNOLOGICAL FUTURE OF LINEA LIGHT GROUP, GENERATING A PRESENT ENLIGHTENED BY TIMELESS DESIGN. INTENSE RESEARCH AND EXPERIMENTATION WORK HAS GIVEN NEW LIFE TO ICONIC PRODUCTS AND GENERATED INNOVATIONS. A COLLECTION DESIGNED TO RE-ESTABLISH THE DIALOGUE BETWEEN HISTORY AND INNOVATION.

Minitopo

The flexible gooseneck and adjustable head form the essential components of a collection that has been a symbol of Italian design since the Seventies. The curved lines of the lampshade envelop the shape of the traditional light bulb conjuring up the image of a charming little mouse.

The five slots on the diffuser cap dissipate the heat preventing direct glare while the black handle makes it possible to direct the light.

Joe Colombo

Joe Colombo opened a design firm in Milan and three years later he was awarded the Golden Medal during the XIII Triennale di Milano event. He went on to win several prestigious awards over the years. He developed his activities in three directions: the interior design of private homes and shops, the setup of trade shows and stands, and product and system design. In every project an interest in the kinetic dimension and the change and versatility of the objects and space over time stands out.
